UNI Campanile

UNI Campanile featured in UNI historical digital collections

The UNI Campanile is one of the most recognizable features of the UNI campus and has come to represent the university as a whole. Images of this university landmark are featured in the Rod Library Digital Collections, available through the Digital Collections link on the Rod Library's home page. The UNI Campanile digital collection is just one of several UNI Historical Collections found on the Digital Collections web site.

The UNI Campanile collection contains a variety of Campanile photos, including its groundbreaking in 1924 along with photos of the bell tower's construction, bell installation, and restoration; photos of carillon players and other interior shots; and artistic photos and drawings of the building.

Get a historical view of this campus icon, and browse through the library's other digital collections by visiting the Rod Library's home page at www.library.uni.edu.

ARTstor is a digital library of nearly one million images in the areas of art, architecture, the humanities, and social sciences with a set of tools to view, present, and manage images for research and pedagogical purposes.

The Digital Library serves users both within the arts and in disciplines outside of the arts. This includes historians of art and architecture and others engaged in the visual arts, as well as individuals in fields as diverse as American Studies, Anthropology, Asian Studies, Classical Studies, Literary Studies, Medieval Studies, Music, Religious Studies, Renaissance Studies, and Sociology. For more information, contact Dr. Alan Asher at Art & Music Collection. Phone number: 319-273-6257. www.library.uni.edu/artmusic/

Need information to help choose a major or career? Resume writing and job interviewing information? The Rod Library Career Collection contains current books and journals describing occupations, the educational preparation needed for various careers, employment trends, job-hunting techniques, and more.

My Library Account

Students who wish to know what books they have checked out from the library and when they're due may see their record online through the library's home page (www.library.uni.edu). Click on the "MyLibrary" option to the right of the UNI/Rod Library logo, type in your last name and your nine-digit UNI ID number, click on "Submit" and then on "Circulation Information." This will display the books you have checked out and the date they're due.

As long as the books are not overdue, you may also renew from this function. Select either "Renew All" or "Renew Selected Items," then click on "Submit." The screen will ask you if you're sure. Click on OK. This will display the new due date(s). If the renewal is not allowed, the screen will tell you this as well. (Although you may not renew online if the books are already overdue, you may still renew them by calling the Circulation Desk at 273-2462, or by bringing the books to the library in person.)

You may also access your library account through MyUniVerse, under the Instruction and Research tab. Simply click on "My Library Account" and follow the steps listed above.

Searching for a specific article?

Use the Article Locator when you already have an article citation and want to find the full text. A link to Article Locator appears on the Library's homepage under "Journal and Magazine Articles" and on other pages on our site. Enter the journal title and other details such as publication year, volume, and issue number. You do not have to fill out the entire form. The Find it! search result screen will indicate if the full text of the article is available online or in print. The online full text link may go directly to the article or instead to a page that includes a list of issues or volumes. If neither an online or print copy is available, you will see an option to order the item from another library via interlibrary loan, a service for requesting articles from other libraries. If you need help using Article Locator or finding articles stop by the Reference Desk on the second floor to see our friendly Reference librarians. 😊
